

GLENNA HOLLOWAY
913 E. Bailey Road
Naperville, IL 60565

Foster Sonnet
PRIZE POEMS, National Federation of State Poetry
Societies

ROMANCING THE RIVERSIDE
Glenna Holloway

I breathe silk fog that strokes the beaver run
Then climbs until impaled on spears of pine.
I wade the backstream watching herons pose
While feeling satin silt with unshod toes.
Infused in morning's patterns just begun,
I move within the negatives of sun
As part of this viridian design
To slip through willows where the white-tails dine.
Tonight I'll hide in musky twilight's rise
And see the deer by moonshed as it vies
With nimbus, pale as cotton newly ginned.
Remembering to stay against the wind,
I wander this kaleidoscope, a child
Whose random river dreamscapes all grow wild.

THE WILDERNESS WAY

A loaf of bread, a jug of wine,
The perfect complements. For now
I have the secret scented pine,
The woods, a book of verse-- and thou.

What more could postponed lovers ask?
Today has waited in my heart
Like claret mellowed in the cask
To flow clear-bright from this old flask.
Is "heart" a passe word apart
From clinic terms? Oh, not in mine.
It's still the source of living's art,
Not cipherable as brain-waved chart.
Our brains won't think this fare divine,
A loaf of bread, a jug of wine.

The bread is cold, the wine too warm,
Our cultured taste should be offended.
My weather eye says it may storm;
My inner eye, another form
Of knowing, sees the rain has ended.
Beyond the mind, the fact-framed brow,
My wider center comprehended
Things in yours that touched and blended
With depths of mine, and shaped somehow,
The perfect complements for now.

Let sophists say that all is mental,
Let them call "heart" mawkish and trite
Who never learned that love, though gentle,
Provides the strength for transcendental
Wings our heads would keep from flight.
Long growth has made deep roots-- woodbine
Of immortality, in spite
Of death's old weeds and ancient blight.
Above cerebral timberline
We share the secret-scented pine.

I brought you here beneath this tree
Because your green trail-blazing eyes
Made paths through browning time's debris,
Homed in the place we both agree
Is all my heart, both wild and wise.
Where verdure circles every bough
Just listen with your branches; rise
On shafts of sun and synthesize
The light. This heart attends my vow,
The woods, a book of verse-- and thou.

--Glenna Holloway